Crate Collection

Designed by Gerrit Rietveld, relaunched by Rietveld Originals x HAY

The history of the original Crate Collection dates back to 1934, when the renowned Dutch architect and designer wanted to create modern and functional furniture from surplus wooden crates.

Today's Crate Collection shares the same aesthetic strength and precisely balanced proportions, with its simplicity and spatial design mirroring the designer's harmonious architectural sense. Comprising a lounge chair, dining chair, low table, and side table, the collection's solid pine construction with water-based coating makes it suitable for outdoor environments, from cafés and public spaces to private or shared gardens.

Gerrit Thomas Rietveld

Gerrit Thomas Rietveld (1888 -1964) was one of the greatest Dutch architects and furniture designers of all times. Son of a carpenter, Rietveld was trained by his father as a cabinetmaker before setting up his own shop in 1917. By 1919, he had embarked upon a career in architecture and joined the 'De Stijl' Movement, which helped define his progressive style. Rietveld's avant-garde approach was focused on adapting and adjusting architecture to the ways people lived their lives, constantly seeking harmony between architecture and interior. Rietveld's mission to create well-designed and affordable furniture for the masses echoes HAY's values, resulting in a Rietveld Originals x HAY collaboration with the relaunch of his iconic Crate series from 1934.
